SUBJECT: Mail Delays

1. I do not as normal practice request that personal mail be sent to me at [REDACTED]. However, some professional mail is personally addressed to me at [REDACTED] as well as some personal mail from correspondents who do not know my home address.

2. I am increasingly concerned about the inordinate delays in receiving mail that is addressed to me personally at [REDACTED]. Attached are two examples that were received here on 29 December-- these are not isolated occurrences. Frequently, I receive mail after the date of the scheduled event. It is embarrassing, especially when an RSVP was requested. I would appreciate any assistance you could give me in this matter.
